FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

November 21, 2007

Cape May Court House - County Prosecutor Robert L. Taylor announced today that his office has concluded an internal affairs investigation into the October 16, 2007 domestic violence incident involving Sea Isle City Chief William Kennedy and his wife.

The scope of this investigation was limited solely to the domestic violence incident and response by members of the Sea Isle City Police Department. It has been determined that at the present time there is insufficient evidence to pursue a criminal prosecution with regard to the domestic violence incident. Further, that there is no evidence of misconduct on the part of the responding officers and that the procedures followed were consistent with the Attorney General's Guidelines on Police Response Procedures in Domestic Violence Cases

Specific details of the investigation cannot be released due to its status as internal affairs, however, the completed investigation is being returned to the City for review and whatever administrative and/or disciplinary action the City deems appropriate.
